

Habitat Birmingham builds and repairs homes in partnership with low-to-moderate income families to support affordable housing and disaster recovery needs in Jefferson, Shelby, Walker, and St. Clair counties.

Why Habitat for Humanity Is Needed

Housing affects us all – our social well-being, our community’s aesthetic appeal and stability, and our economy. Yet, purchasing affordable housing is out of reach for many working families. More than half of all adults have made at least one trade-off in the past three years to cover their rent or mortgage. Trade-offs includes taking a second job, cutting back on healthcare and healthy food, and moving to less safe neighborhoods.

Key Facts about Habitat Birmingham

- ▲ Houses are not given away;
- ▲ Zero percent financing is offered to qualified families for new and repaired homes;
- ▲ Applicants qualify based on three criteria: (1) need for quality, affordable housing; (2) willingness to partner with Habitat Birmingham (minimum 300 “sweat equity” hours and 10 hours of homeownership education workshops); and, (3) ability to repay a no interest mortgage;

Quality, Affordable Housing Effect

Stable households’ equal positive social impact – changes in physical and mental health, quality of life, and attitudes or behavior. (Source: The Foundation Center) Quality, affordable housing is vital to the strength and condition of any community. When compared to non-homeowners (of same age, income, gender and race), children are more likely to graduate from college, become higher earners in adulthood, attend church, join school PTA, and less likely to be involved in teen pregnancy, be on welfare and have substance abuse issues. (Source: Habitat for Humanity International)
